ABSTRACT

Nucleic acids encoding a novel ferritin light chain variant, a ferritin light chain variant polypeptide, ferritin light chain variant polypeptide-specific antibodies, and methods of use thereof are provided herein. Also provided are methods to screen and identify agents capable of modulating the activity of the ferritin light chain variant.